SOFT COAL MINERS

Strike in the West Virginia and Virginia District On.

There Are 29,000 Miners in the Field, and It Was Expected That 18,000 Will Be Out in the Course of a Few Days.

Dingess, W. Va., June 7.—Seven hundred miners at the Pearl Mining and cuts to broken limbs. Co.'s mines went out on strike here at noon Friday.

Montgomery, W. Va., June 7.-One thousand United Mine Workers in the Kanawha field signify their intention of joining the strike. A few hundred quit work here Friday afternoon and practically all miners in the New river district will also strike Saturday. The Cabin Creek miners, 800 in number, stated Friday night that they will not join in the strike.

on in the Flat Top, Elkhorn, Tug River and Dingess fields. Friday even- instantaneous. ing probably 10,000 miners, all members of the United Mine Workers of America, came from the mines with ski's little son occupied the same seat picks on shoulders and declared their intention to remain out until the operators make them the concessions demanded at the Huntington meeting a few weeks ago. From present indications not more than a dozen colleries in the region along the N. & W. will be at work. The miners in this field are made up of Huns, Poles, Negroes and whites, but all belong alike to the United Mine Workers' organization, and all seem determined to wage their fight to the bitter end.

Wilkesbarre, Pa., June 7.-President Mitchell said Friday that the strike of the engineers and pumpmen is practically complete. The mining superintendents say that as far as they are concerned there has been no change in the general situation.

Hazleton, Pa., June 9.-At their meeting at Freeland Sunday afternoon the employes of the Delaware, Susquehanna & Schuylkill railroad unanimously refused to handle any trains carrying special officers, deputies or non-unionists. The following resolution, addressed to Luther C. Smith, superintendent of the road, was adopted:

Resolved, That owing to the strike of the anthracite miners we, the employes of the Delaware, Susquehanna & Schuylkill, will refuse to handle any trains carrying deputies, coal and iron police or non-unionists during the continuance of the present trouble.

It is understood the company will not ask the men to continue doing this work, but will depend on the Lehigh Valley railroad in the future to take these special trains from one colliery to the other. Some of the Lehigh Vallev trainmen declined during the past two days to handle these trains and crews were recruited with some diffi-

The Lehigh Valley trainmen held a secret meeting here Sunday aftern and decided that they will not handle any coal mined at the collieries or any soft coal sent over the Hazleton division to displace anthracite during the continuation of the miners' strike. They will continue manning trains, carrying officers and deputies, and men recruited in the big cities in they are not imported in such large numbers as to enable the companies to resume the mining of coal with nonunion forces.

Northfork, W. Va., June 9.—The coal operators here have given notice that all the strikers must vacate company houses Monday. Several hundred nonunion men were at work here Saturday. The strikers met Sunday, and it is believed violence will be resorted to if non-union men attempt to enter mines again Monday. The operators say they will protect all the non-union men who desire to work.

Davy, W. Va., June 9.—There has | Prominent Merchant Confessed to Killbeen no serious trouble here yet, but the operators announced Sunday that Monday morning they will. operate their mines with non-union labor. The strikers say that no non-union men shall enter the mines. The operators are putting guards armed with Winchesters about their property and serious results are expected.

Clarksburg, W. Va., June 9.-The miners' strike was unchanged Sunday. Several small secret meetings were held by the strikers, but nothing was given out. The operators say most of the men will be working Monday.

President Not to Interfere in Strike. Washington, June 7.-After a conference with the members of his cabinet Friday, President Roosevelt decided that there is no legal ground for interference by him in the settlement of the dispute between the coal operators and the striking miners.

EXCURSION TRAIN WRECKED.

One Killed, Nearly 50 Injured, Three Probably Fatally.

Alpena, Mich., June 9.-An excursion train on the Detroit & Mackinaw railroad, which left here Sunday morning for Saginaw, consisting of an engine and 12 coaches, carrying over 500 people, was wrecked at Black river while running 40 miles an hour. One man was instantly killed, three were probably fatally injured and nearly 50 others received injuries of various degrees of severity, ranging from bruises

The excursion was under the auspices of the German Aid society of Alpena. When the train reached Black river the tender jumped the track. Engineer Hopper instantly set the air brakes and reversed his engine. The sudden stop threw the first three coaches of the train off the track and into the ditch. The first car was thrown half around and the next two coaches plowed through it and cut it in two. August Grosinski, the only Elkhorn, W. Va., June 7.—The great | person killed, was seated in this coach coal strike in West Virginia is now with 40 other excursionists. His body was terribly crushed and death was

WIND AND THUNDER STORM.

Two People Killed and a Third Perhaps Fatally Injured.

Columbus, Ga., June 9.-A heavy wind and thunder storm which passed over this city Sunday afternoon caused the death of two people, perhaps fatally injured a third and did considerable damage to property. The dead: J. J. Wildis, a carpenter: Louis Mc-Clain. The injured: M. C. Cochran. Willis was killed by lightning while standing near a large oak tree on upper First avenue. He was conversing with Cochran, who was also struck at the same time. Louis McClain was standing in his back yard in Phoenix City, just across the river from where Willis was killed. The lightning struck a clothes wire he was holding. Cochran's condition is reported as serious. Several dwellings in the resi dence portion of the city were struck by lightning and unroofed by the storm.

A HAZING BEE.

An Affair That Began in Fun Came Near Ending Disastrously.

Madison, Wis., June 9 .- A hazing bee which started in a spirit of fun came near ending disastrously. After Harry F. Herrmann, of New London, had been ducked in the lake he went home and procured a revolver, in order, as he maintains, to defend himself. Later he appeared on the street and was "rushed" by the crowd, and in the melee the revolver was discharged, the bullet lodging in the leg of Phillip C. Kopplin, of Laven. This enraged the students, who captured Herrmann and gave him a second ducking. Several other shots were fired, but failed to take effect. Koppling's injuries are said to be slight.

A Farming School to Be Established in New York State.

Original Committee of Promotion Is Abram S. Hewitt, R. Fulton Cutting, John G. Carlisle, Mrs. Seth Low and Others.

New York. June 9 .- The signing of contracts within a few days for the purchase of the School of Practical Agriculture of 415 acres of land near Poughkeepsie marks the beginning of a movement for the permanent establishment near New York of what the promoters call one of the most unique educational institutions in the country. Less than two years ago a num ber of citizens prominent in political and social life, met at the residences of Abram S. Hewitt and R. Fulton Cutting and formed themselves into an organization, establishing, experimentally, a school where the practice as well as the theory of farming could be taught. Prof. George T. Powell, a recognized authority on scientific agriculture, undertook the organization of the school, and a number of ladies and gentlemen agreed to finance the project in its experimental stages. The original committee of promotion, of which Mr. Hewitt was chairman, included R. Fulton Cutting, Jacob H. Schiff, John G. Carlisle, Mrs. Seth Low, Mrs. Josephine Shaw, Lowell, Walter W. Law and ties concerned. William E. Dodge. The original school establishment was at Briar Cliff manor, provided by the generosity of Mr. Law, who also furnished a building to accommodate 35 students and the necssary staff.

The success of the school was immediately, and the originators then concluded to extend the facilities. The board of trustees was then or ganized with the following officers: Theodore L. Van Horden, president; Abram S. Hewitt and Wm. E. Dodge vice presidents; E. Fulton Cutting, treasurer, and Thacher L. P. Luquer,

In speaking of the school President Van Norden said Sunday:

secretary.

"Aside from my official connection with the school I have taken a deep interest in its progress. We have demonstrated, I think, beyond a doubt that there is need and opportunity for a practical farming school in this country on the plan carried out by our director, Mr. Pcwell. Our need now is money resources for the equipment of the foundation of the school at Poughkeepsie, and when this equipment is completed we will need contributions to a fund for the endowment of the school."

Mr. Hewitt said: "If those who are friends of practical education and of general social betterment could realize as we do the great needs and greater opportunities of this school. I believe that we would have little difficulty in obtaining that generous financial support that at this time

Mr. Wm. E. Dodge said: ties where agriculture is profitably practiced must welcome the application to our soil of those methods which have made the successful farm-

GOV. WILLIAM TAFT.

Has a Talk With the Pope on the Philippine Question.

Rome, June 6 .- Gov. Wm. Taft, of the Philippines, had an audience with the pope Thursday.

While talking with the pope, Gov. Taft reviewed, in a summary way, the questions in the Philippines which require settlement. He pointed out to his holiness that the readjustment of the relations of the church and state in the islands was not an indication of hostility of the United States to the Catholic church, but declared that such readjustment was merely a necessity under the American constitution. Gov. Taft referred to the prosperity and the freedom of the Roman Catholic church in the United States, and cited these conditions as an assurance that the vatican had nothing to fear from the extension of the authority of the United States over the Philippine islands.

Replying to Judge Taft. the pontiff expressed the greatest pride in the Roman Catholic church in the United States and intense interest in the great republic. He said he earnestly desired to help the American administration of the Philippines in every possible way and he assured Gov. Taft that the vatican would approach all questions raised in the broadest and most conciliatory spirit. The pope said also that matters of detail in connection with the questions to be decided would be referred to a committee of cardinals, whereby would be considered at length, and that all the issues would be treated with the sole aim of reaching a settlement satisfactory to all par-

The pope appeared to be in excellent health during his interview with Gov. Taft and was of vivacious humor. He referred pleasantly to Archbishop Ireland in what he had to say concerning the Roman Catholis church in the United States.

PISTOLS AND SHOTGUNS.

Battle Between Three Citizens and About Thirty Italians.

St. Paul, Minn., June 9.-A battle was fought with pistols and shotguns late Sunday between three citizens and about 30 Italians employed in a camp on the Chicago Great Western road at the end of the Concord street car line, resulting in the serious injury of four men, one of whom will die. A. Roberge is shot in the abdomen and face and will die. N. Marcotte, of Minneapolis, is shot in the hands and chest. His injuries are not serious. Fred Wayman is wounded in the abdomen but is expected to recover. Joseph St. Dore, an Italian laborer, has several wounds on his face, and it is thought that he will lose his eyesight. The battle is said to have resulted from insults offered Mrs. Marcotte anu Mrs. Roberge, who were passing the camp of the laborers.

F. A. WERMAN, OF BALTIMORE, SAYS: Gentlemen: - Being entirely cured of deafness, thanks to your treatment, I will now give you a full history of my case, to be used at your discretion.

About five years ago my right ear began to sing, and this kept on getting worse, until I lost my hearing in this ear entirely.

I underwent a treatment for catarrh, for three months, without any success, consulted a number of the control of the city, who told me that I underwent a treatment for catarrh, for three months, without any success, consulted a number of physicians, among others, the most eminent ear specialist of this city, who told me that only an operation could help me, and even that only temporarily, that the head noises would then cease, and the hearing in the affected ear would be lost for, rer.

I then saw your advertisement accidentally in a New York paper, and ordered your treatment. After I had used it only a few days according to your defections, the noises ceased, and to-day, after five weeks, my hearing in the diseased ear has been entirely restored. I thank you heartily and beg to remain

CHAPTER XI.—CONTINUED. Leglosse had already engaged a cab, and when I joined him I discovered that he had also brought a Sicilian police official with him. This individual away we went. As we had informed the cabman, previous to setting out, covered the distance in fine style, and just as the sun was sinking behind the mountains entered the little village on the outskirts of which the villa was situated. It was a delightful spot, a mere cluster of human habitations, clinging to the mountain-side. The Angelus was sounding from the which the villa was situated. We had A great cry from Hayle reached our already formed our plans, and it was ears. A moment later they had disarranged that the island official should send his name in to Hayle, Leglosse and I keeping in the background as much as possible. We descended from the carriage and Leglosse rang the bell which we discovered on the wall; presently the door was opened, and a wizened-up little man made his appearance before us. An animated conversation ensued, from which it transpired that the new occupant of the villa was now in the pavilion at the foot of the grounds.

"In that case conduct us to him," said the officer, "but remember this, we desire to approach without being seen. Lead on!" The old man obeyed and led us by a winding path through the orangery for upwards of a quarter of a mile. At the end of that walk we saw ahead of us a handsome white edifice, built of stucco, and of the summer-house order. It stood on a small plateau on the first slope of the cliff and commanded an exquisite view of the bay, the blue waters of which lay some 200 feet or so below it.

"His excellency is in there," said the old man, in his Sicilian patois. "Very good, in that case you can leave us," said the officer, "we can find our way to him ourselves."

The old man turned and left us, without another word, very well pleased, I fancy, to get out of the way of that functionary. Goodness only knows what memories of stolen vegetables and fruit had risen in his mind.

"Before we go in," I said, "would it not be as well to be prepared for any emergencies? Remember he is not a man who would stick at much."

We accordingly arranged our plan of attack in case it should be necessary, and then approached the building. As we drew nearer the sound of voices reached our ears. At first I was not able to recognize them, but as we ascended the steps to the pavilion, I was able to grasp the real facts of the case.

"Good heavens!" I muttered to myself, "that's Kitwater's voice." Then, turning to Leglosse, I whispered: "We're too late, they're here before

It certainly was Kitwater's voice ! had heard, but so hoarse with fury that at any other time I should scarcely have recognized it.

"Cover him, Codd," he was shouting, "and if he dares to move shoot him down like the dog he is. You robbed us of our treasure, did you? And you sneaked away at night into the cover of the jungle, and left us to die or to be mutilated by those brutes of Chinese. But we've run you down at last, and now when I get hold of you, by God, I'll tear your eyes and your tongue out, and you shall be like the two men you robbed and betrayed. Keep your barrel fixed on him, Codd, I tell you! Remember if he moves you are to fire. Oh! Gideon Hayle, I've prayed on my bended knees for this moment, and now it's come

At this moment we entered the when I say that I am now a married the most surprised. He stared at me

"Put up that revolver, Codd," I eried. "And you, Kitwater, drop that knife. Hayle, my man, it's all up. The game is over, so you may as well give in."

Leglosse was about to advance upon him, warrant in one hand and manacles in the other.

"What does this mean?" cried Hayle.

His voice located him, and before we could either of us stop him, Kitwater had sprung forward and clutched him in his arms. Of what Peculiarities of Costume and Arfollowed next I scarcely like to think, even now. In cannoning with Hayle he had dropped his knife, and now the two stood while a man could have counted three, locked together in deadly embrace. Then ensued such a struggle as I hope I shall never see again, while we others stood looking on as if we were bound hand and foot. The whole affair could not have lasted more than a few moments, and yet it seemed like an eternity. Kitwater, with the strength of a madman, had seized Hayle round the waist with one arm, while his right hand was clutching at the other's throat. I saw that the veins were standing out upon Hayle's forehead like black cords. Do what he could, he could not shake off the man he had so cruelly wronged. They swayed to and fro, and in one of their lurches struck the window, which flew open and threw them into the balcony outside. Codd and the Sicilian police official gave loud cries, but as for me I could not have uttered a sound had my gave the driver his instructions, and life depended on it. Hayle must have realized his terrible position, for there was a look of abject, hopeless that there was no time to be lost, we terror upon his face. The blind man, of course, could see nothing of his danger. His one desire was to be revenged upon his enemy. Closer and closer they came to the frail railing. Once they missed it, and staggered a foot away from it. Then they came back to it again, and lurched against it. The woodwork the string to meet emergencies in docampanile of the white monuctain shapped, and the whole wer further up the hill-side, as we drove the edge on to the sloping bank bealong the main street. Leaving the low. Still locked together, they village behind us we passed on until rolled over and over, down the dewe came to the gates of the park in clivity towards the edge of the cliff.

"My God!" he said, "how terrible! how terrible!"

Then little Codd sank down, and, placing his head upon his hands on the table, sobbed like a little child. "What is to be done?" I asked, in a horrified whisper.

"Go down to the rocks and search for them," said the Sicilian officer,

THE WOODWORK SNAPPED AND THE TWO MEN FELL OVER THE EDGE ONTO THE SLOPING BANK BELOW.

"but I doubt if we shall be able to find them; the sea is very deep off this point."

We went. Kitwater's body was discovered, terribly mutilated, upon the rocks. Hayle's remains were never found. Whether he fell into the deep water and was washed out to sea, or whether his body was jammed between the rocks under the water, no one would ever be able to say. It was gone, and with it all that were left of the stones that had occasioned their misery. Codd did not accompany us in the search, and when we returned to the villa above he was not to be found. Never since the moment when we left him sobbing at the table have I set eves on him, and now, I suppose, in all human probability I never shall.

Later on we returned to Palermo to break the news to Miss Kitwater. Shocked though she was, she received the tidings with greater calmness than I had expected she would do. Perhaps, after all, she felt that it was better that it should have ended so.

ticles Bestowed Upon Her as a Dowry.

At market we saw a bride in the native dress, who had just come from the church where the marriage ceremony had been performed, and was receiving the congratulations of her friends and neighbors, while her proud husband stood at her side and was envied, says a Servian correspondent of the Chicago Record-Herald. She was a buxom damself of the Swedish type, with blonde hair and a clear blue eye. Her head was covered with a peculiar turban, from which hung clusters of silver coins. Long strings of coins were suspended from a necklace and a girdle, and hung over her shoulders and hips and must have been very heavy. These were her dowry. She had begun to save them during her childhood, and, instead of putting them in a savings bank, had strung them together for ornaments, and had worn some or all of them on festive occasions to attract the attention of the eligible young men of the neighborhood.

They were of different denominations, all of silver, and were strung together with a good deal of taste. The custom of the country permits a bride to control her dowry after marriage, and many women are able to preserve their wedding coins and transmit them to their children. Sometimes they are exchanged for a piece of land, a cottage, or cattle, and sometimes mestic economy.

AN ENGLISH BATH STORY.

Novel Arrangement for Obtaining a Shower-Bath in an Irish side Resort.

A good story has recently beck picked up in the west of Ireland by Mr. R. J. Mecredy, the well-known motorist. It concerns the rising little seeside town of Lahinch, a place which hat recently developed tremendous! through the tourist and golf bears, says the London M. A. P. A few years ago the public baths, like most other institutions in the village, were very primitive. They were situated in a little cottage, which was just above the high-water mark. Shower baths we-e a specialty, and they were to be had in a room which had a bathtub placed in the middle of the floor. On pulling a string a perfect deluge of bracing sea water came through the ceiling. A lady visitor once stood ready in the tub and gave the dread signal. But instead of the usual avalanche of green water there came from aloft the gruff voice of the fisherman proprietor of the baths: "If ye'll move a aste more to the wesht, ma'am," said the voice, "ye'll get the full benefit av the shower." Looking up she, to her horror, descried the old fisherman standing by an aperture in the ceiling, and holding a barrel of sea water ready for the douche! Whether the lady moved to the west and received the shower or not, the chronicler does not relate. But Lahinch has made giant strides onward since.

Nothing.

A traveler in the Bolivian Andes says that at one time while his cart was making its progress through passes and over dizzy heights he had a chance to learn how two taciturn persons may show their satisfaction at meeting in other than the conventional way.

It was midday, and under the glaring vertical sun drowsiness had invaded us. We slept until we were awakened by the approach of the mail cart coming in the opposite direction, the first civilized vehicle we had encountered. Both drivers stopped and gazed at each other long in silence.

They were evidently pleased to meet, but had nothing whatever to say. At last one inquired: "What news?"

"Nothing," replied the other. "What did he say?" asked the first, doubtless continuing a conversation a fortnight old.

"Nothing." "Good!" and they drove on .- Youth's Companion.

The Eoers Are Generally Dressed in Dilapidated Clothing, But They All Have a Smart and Soldierly Bearing.

London, June 9.—The war office has received the following message from Lord Kitchener under Sunday's date: "The disarmament of the Boers is proceeding satisfactorily, and good spirit is displayed everywhere. Yesterday 4,342 rifles had been surrendered up to date."

Dispatches received from Pretoria confirm the statements made in Lord Kitchener's communication to the war office, and say that the whole staff of the late Transvaal government, with a body guard of 50 men, surrendered last Saturday.

The following formalities are observed when Gen. Botha, Gen. DeWet. or any of the Boer commandants accompany the British officer who has been detailed to receive surrenders:

The Boer leader goes out to meet a commando and returns at its head. The Boers who come in are generally dressed in dilapidated clothing but have a smart and soldierly bearing. Those who are to surrender are assembled and the Boer leader delivers an address to his men urging them to listen to the British officer who has been detailed on this work. The British officer then makes a speech to the men of the commando, in which he informs them of the admiration of King Edward and the British nation for the gallant struggle and the bravery of their people and promises that the British authorities will do their utmost to help them re-settle on their

A meal is then provided for the Boers, after which the formal surrenders occur. In many such instances the Boers have cheered King Edward and they have sometimes expressed surprise that no army was sent out to receive their surrenders. The Boers are allowed to retain their horses and saddles. The majority of them appear to be glad that the war is at an end and that they will now be able to join their families.

Among the men who surrendered to the British authorities at Balmoral, Cape Colony, were four Americans, who will be granted free passage to Delagoa bay.

Utilization of Atmospheric Electricity Without Chemicals or Dynamos.

London, June 9.-A dispatch to the Daily Mail from Las Palmas, Canary islands, says that a prominent engineer of that town named Figueras claims to have discovered a method of utilizing atmospheric electricity without chemicals or dynamos, and that he is able to make practical application of his method without employing any motive force. It stood on a small plateau on the first slope of the cliff and commanded an exquisite view of the bay, the blue waters of which lay some 200 feet or so below it.

"His excellency is in there," said the old man, in his Sicilian patois.

"Very good, in that case you can leave us," said the officer, "we can find our way to him ourselves." The old man turned and left us, without another word, very well pleased, I fancy, to get out of the way of that functionary. Goodness only knows what memories of stolen vegetables and fruit had risen in his mind. "Before we go in," I said, "wouldit not be as well to be prepared for any emergencies? Remember he is not a man who would stick at much." We accordingly arranged our plan of attack in case it should be necessary, and then approached the building. As we drew nearer the sound of voices reached our ears. At first I was not able to recognize them, but as we ascended the steps to the pavilion, I was able to grasp the real facts of

"Good heavens!" I muttered to myself, "that's Kitwater's voice." Then, turning to Leglosse, I whispered: "We're too late, they're here before

It certainly was Kitwater's voice ? had heard, but so hoarse with fury that at any other time I should scarcely have recognized it.

"Cover him, Codd," he was shouting, "and if he dares to move shoot him down like the dog he is. You robbed us of our treasure, did you? And you sneaked away at night into the cover of the jungle, and left us to die or to be mutilated by those brutes of Chinese. But we've run you down at last, and now when I get hold of you, by God, I'll tear your eyes and your tongue out, and you shall be like the two men you robbed and betrayed. Keep your barrel fixed on him, Codd, I tell you! Remember if he moves you are to fire. Oh! Gideon Hayle, I've prayed on my bended knees for this moment, and now it's come

On hearing our steps, however, he turned his sightless face towards us. It was Hayle, however, who seemed the most surprised. He stared at me as if I were a man returned from the dead.

"Put up that revolver, Codd," I cried. "And you, Kitwater, drop that knife. Hayle, my man, it's all well give in."

Leglosse was about to advance upon him, warrant in one hand and manacles in the other.

"What does this mean?" cried Hayle. His voice located him, and before we could either of us stop him, Kitwater had sprung forward and clutched him in his arms. Of what followed next I scarcely like to think, even now. In cannoning with Hayle he had dropped his knife, and now the two stood while a man Oh, the sweetest-scented nectar flowing from this life is gone,

Then ensued such a struggle as I hope I shall specified as the counter of the counter sued such a struggle as I hope I shall never see again, while we others stood looking on as if we were bound could not have lasted more than a few moments, and yet it seemed like an eternity. Kitwater, with the strength of a madman, had seized Hayle round the waist with one arm, while his right hand was clutching at the other's throat. I saw that the veins were standing out upon Hayle's forehead like black cords. Do what he could, he could not shake off the man he had so cruelly wronged. They swayed to and fro, and in one of their lurches struck the window, which flew open and threw them into the balcony outside. Codd and the Sicilian police official gave loud cries, but as for me I could not have uttered a sound had my gave the driver his instructions, and life depended on it. Hayle must have realized his terrible position, for the cabman, previous to setting out, there was a look of abject, hopeless terror upon his face. The blind man, of course, could see nothing of his venged upon his enemy. Closer and closer they came to the frail railing. Once they missed it, and stag-

"My God!" he said, "how terrible! how terrible!" Then little Codd sank down, and, placing his head upon his hands on the table, sobbed like a little child.

"What is to be done?" I asked, in a horrified whisper. "Go down to the rocks and search

We went. Kitwater's body was discovered, terribly mutilated, upon the rocks. Hayle's remains were never found. Whether he fell into the deep water and was washed out to sea, or whether his body was jammed between the rocks under the water, no one would ever be able to say. It was gone, and with it all that were left of the stones that had occasioned their misery. Codd did not accompany us in the search, and when we returned to the villa above he was not to be found. Never since the moment when we left him sobbing at the table have I set eyes on him, and now, I suppose, in all human probability I never shall.

Later on we returned to Palermo to break the news to Miss Kitwater. Shocked though she was, she received the tidings with greater calmness than I had expected she would do. Perhaps, after all, she felt that it was better that it should have ended so.

A SERVIAN BRIDE.

Peculiarities of Costume and Articles Bestowed Upon Her as a Dowry. At market we saw a bride in the native dress, who had just come from the church where the marriage ceremony had been performed, and was receiving the congratulations of her friends and neighbors, while her proud hushand and foot. The whole affair band stood at her side and was envied, says a Servian correspondent of the Chicago Record-Herald. She was a buxom damself of the Swedish type, with blonde hair and a clear blue eye. Her head was covered with a peculiar turban, from which hung clusters of silver coins. Long strings of coins were suspended from a necklace and a girdle, and hung over her shoulders and hips and must have been very heavy. These were her dowry. She had begun to save them during her childhood, and, instead of putting them in a savings bank, had strung them together for ornaments, and had worn some or all of them on festive occasions to attract the attention of the eligible young men of the neigh-

They were of different denominations, all of silver, and were strung together with a good deal of taste. The ustom of the country permits a bride to control her dowry after marriage, and many women are able to preserve their wedding coins and transmit them to their children. Sometimes. they are exchanged for a piece of land, cottage, or cattle, and sometimes the coins are taken, one by one, from the string to meet emergencies in domestic economy.

AN ENGLISH BATH STORY.

Novel Arrangement for Obtaining a Shower-Bath in an Irish Seaside Resort.

A good story has recently beck picked up in the west of Ireland by Mr. R. J. Mecredy, the well-known motorist. It concerns the rising little seeside town of Lahinch, a place which hat recently developed tremendous! through the tourist and golf bears, says the London M. A. P. A few years ago the public baths, like most other institutions in the village, were very primitive. They were situated in a 1.4. tle cottage, which was just above the high-water mark. Shower baths we-e a specialty, and they were to be had in a room which had a bathtub placed in the middle of the floor. On pulling a string a perfect deluge of bracing sea water came through the ceiling. A lady visitor once stood ready in the tub and gave the dread signal. But instead of the usual avalanche of green water there came from aloft the gruff voice of the fisherman proprietor of the baths: "If ye'll move a taste more to the wesht, ma'am," said the voice, "ye'll get the full benefit av the shower." Looking up she, to her horror, descried the old fisherman standing by an aperture in the ceiling, and holding a barrel of sea water ready for the douche! Whether the lady moved to the west and received the shower or not, the chronicler does not relate. But Lahinch has made giant strides onward since.

Nothing.

A traveler in the Bolivian Andes says that at one time while his cart was making its progress through passes and over dizzy heights he had a chance to learn how two taciturn persons may show their satisfaction at meeting in other than the conventional way.

It was midday, and under the glaring vertical sun drowsiness had invaded us. We slept until we were awakened by the approach of the mail cart coming in the opposite direction, the first civilized vehicle we had encountered. Both drivers stopped and gazed at each other long in silence. They were evidently pleased to meet, but had nothing whatever to say. At last one inquired:

"What news?" "Nothing," replied the other. "What did he say?" asked the first, doubtless continuing a conversation a fortnight old. "Nothing." "Good!" and they drove on .- Youth's Companion.

The Eoers Are Generally Dressed in Dilapidated Clothing, But They All Have a Smart and Soldierly Bearing.

London, June 9.—The war office has received the following message from Lord Kitchener under Sunday's date: "The disarmament of the Boers is proceeding satisfactorily, and good spirit is displayed everywhere. Yes-

Dispatches received from Pretoria confirm the statements made in Lord Kitchener's communication to the war office, and say that the whole staff of the late Transvaal government, with a body guard of 50 men, surrendered last Saturday.

The following formalities are observed when Gen. Botha, Gen. DeWet or any of the Boer commandants accompany the British officer who has been detailed to receive surrenders: The Boer leader goes out to meet a commando and returns at its head. The Boers who come in are generally dressed in dilapidated clothing but have a smart and soldierly bearing. Those who are to surrender are assembled and the Boer leader delivers an address to his men urging them to listen to the British officer who has been detailed on this work. The British officer then makes a speech to the men of the commando, in which he informs them of the admiration of King Edward and the British nation for the gallant struggle and the bravery of their people and promises that the British authorities will do their ut-

A meal is then provided for the Boers, after which the formal surrenders occur. In many such instances the Boers have cheered King Edward and they have sometimes expressed surprise that no army was sent out to receive their surrenders. The Boers are allowed to retain their horses and saddles. The majority of them appear to be glad that the war is at an end and that they will now be able to join their families.

Among the men who surrendered to the British authorities at Balmoral, Cape Colony, were four Americans, who will be granted free passage to Delagoa bay.

A NEW DISCOVERY.

Utilization of Atmospheric Electricity Without Chemicals or Dynamos.

London, June 9.-A dispatch to the Daily Mail from Las Palmas, Canary islands, says that a prominent engineer of that town named Figueras claims to have discovered a method of utilizing atmospheric electricity without chemicals or dynamos, and that he is able to make practical application of his method without employing any motive force. Senor Figueras expects that his invention will bring about a tremendous industrial revolution.

THE HOME GOLD CURE.

An Ingenious Treatment by which Drunkards are Peing Cured Daily in Spite of Them-

No Noxiuous Doses. No Weak-ening of the Nerves. A Pleas-ant and Positive Cure for the Liquor Habit.

It is now generally known and under-stood that Drunkenness is a disease and not wakness. A body filled with poison, and nerves completely shattered by periodical or constant use of intoxicating liquors, requires an antidote capable of neutralizing and eradicating this poison, and destroying the craving for intoxicants. Sufferers may now cure themselves at home without publicity or loss of time from business by this wonderful "HOME GOLD CURE" which has been perfected after many years of close study and treatment of inebriates. The faithful use according to directions of this wonderful discovery is positively guaranteed to cure the most obstinate case, no matter how hard a drinker. Our records show the marvelous transformation of thousands of Drunkards into sober, industrious and upright men.

WIVES CURE YOUR HUSBANDS!
CHILDREN CURE YOUR FATHERS! This remedy is in no sense a nostrum but a specific for this disease only, and is so skillfully devised and prepared that it is thoroughly soluble and pleasant to taste, so that it can be given in a cup of tea or coffee without the knowledge of the person taking it. Thousands of Drunkads have cured themselves with this priceless remedy, and as many more have been cured and made temporate men by having the "CURE" administered by loving friends and relatives without their knowledge in coffee or tea, and believe today that they discontinved drinking of their own free will.

DO NOT WAIT. Do not be deludged by apparent and misleading "improvement." Drive out the disease at once and for all time. The "HOME GOLD CURE" is sold at the extremely low price of One Dollar, thus placing with-in reach of everybody a treatment more effectual than the others costing $25 to most to help them re-settle on their $50. Full directions accompany each package, Special advice by skilled physicians when requested without extra charge. Sent prepaid to any part of the world on receipt of One Dollar. Address Dept. (4-year-old trial 2:21 1-2.)

By W11.TON 2:19½, sire of 103 with records from 2:06 to 2:30 The Wiltons are not only trotters and racehorses, but the greatest road horses in the world.

1st dam, Emma Patchen, dam of George W. 2:24½, Lena Wilkes, record 2:29¼, trial 2:12½, and Patchen Wilton, trial 2:21½, by Mambrino Patchen 58.

As a producer of dams Mambrino Patchen is without an equal. He strad the dams of Alcyone, Alcantara, Baron Wilkes, Guy Wilkes, Wilkes Boy, Simmors. Ralph Wilkes 2:06¾ and over 150 with records in 2:30 and better. Mambrino Patchen's sons six of the dams of Cresceus, the world's champion trotter, and The Abbot; the champion trotting gelding.

2d dam, Emma, record 2:35, made in 1865, to high wheel sulky weighing 96 lbs., dam of Jerry 2:27¼.

PATCHEN WILTON is a coal black horse, and for beauty, grace and action he is without a peer in Kentucky. With the rise of horse shows and road driving nowadays, the horse with plenty of good looks, action, soundness and speed, is the one that brings the fancy price. All of these virtues are combined in PATCHEN WILTON, and this is backed by the most fashionable breeding in the books. His sire is one of the greatest sons of George Wilkes, his dam a great producing daughter of Mambrino Patchen, his second dam a great producing daughter of Mambrino Patchen, his second dam a great producing daughter of Mambrino Patchen, his second dam a great producing daughter of Mambrino Patchen, his second dam a great race mare in her day and a producer.

He won five straight races at 2 years old without losing a heat, defeating all the cracks of the year 1895. He trotted the last end of a mile, over a slow track, in 1::5 1-2, and could have gone faster. While it is saying a great deal, I assert that he is siring as much and as uniform speed as any stallion in Kentucky standing at any price. He had only four colts as old as 8 years last season. Bessie Brown (was second at 2 years in 2:20 1-2) trotted a 3/4 track in 2:15. Edna Earl, same track, in 2:23 1-2, half in 1:08. Rena Wise took a 3-year-old record of 2:2134, and Black Arthur trotted in 2:26 to cart. Wigwag, a 2-year-old, trotted a 34 track in 2:2814 on 15th of June, and was sold

A Horse Remedy That Was Not Reco ommended, But Was Very Etfective in Its Way.

A recent West Philadelphia political meeting was marked by the telling of the fol-lowing story as illustrative of the evil of being too laconic in everyday speech. Brevity was the distinguishing characteristic of the village wherein lived Jim and Zach, farmers, and each the owner of a horse. They met one day and spoke as follows, relates the Philadelphia Times:

"Mornin', Jim!"
"Mornin', Zach!" "What did you give your horse for the botts?"

"Turpentine."

"Good mornin'!" They again encountered each other a few days later, with this result: "Mornin', Jim!"
"Mornin', Zach!"

"What did you say you gave your horse for the botts?"

"Turpentine."
"Killed mine."

"Mine, too." "Good mornin'!" "Good mornin'!"

The Colonel's Story of Flad &

By JOHN H. RAFTERY

CITTING by the camp fire one evening the talk had turned upon the striking performances of some of the tenderfoot desperadoes who had outshot and outshone some of the oldtimers. Capt. Crews mentioned Gerald Flad and his brief but brilliant career as a ranger, and then everybody had something to say about the dashing Canadian-Irishman who flashed like a meteor across the border firmament some ten years ago. Col. Hutchinson, who was the dean of the party and had seen bloody service in two wars, threw a lot of unexpected light upon the personality of the vanished bravo, and as a finale to the evening's talk told this story:

His father was one of that fast fading race of Irish gentlemen who chose arms as a profession and found neither sorrow nor disappointment in the scattered and cruel rewards of his adventurous life. Roger Flad, the father was in every uprising that gave promise of hard knocks. When he couldn't find work for his sword in the cause of his own suffering island he bought a commission in the British army, and afterward wandered 'round the world like a knight errant of old, seeking chances for chivalrous advancement. I think he married a Castilian girl, but at all events Gerald was his only child and he reared him as a gentle-blooded son of a roving soldier of fortune. You know the boy spoke French, Italian. Spanish and German as well as he spoke English, and he was a devil with broadsword, cutlass or rapier before he was of age. He had been expelled from Heidelberg before he was 18, and when he first showed up at the headquarters of Coppinger's California expedition he had more sears across his boyish countenance than half of us

I think the old man-he was only a lieutenant when the Brule Sioux got him-was half sorry at the training of his son, for the youngster's early life was a fierce exaggeration of all the father's passion for war and adventure of all kinds. Well, everybody liked him-I've heard Phil Sheridan swear that the lad was the best wild turkey shot that ever came into the Indian country-but he couldn't get things hot enough for him. He scouted for two months in the Sierras on that California expedition, disappeared, and the next we heard he was distinguishing himself in the Matabele wars as a oushwhacker and guerrilla. I was down in Old Mexico when Ochoa was 'starting things"-never mind what I was there for-and who should I see one day, drilling a troop of the most ascally outlaws that ever crossed the Rio Grande, but Gerald himself, as brown as an Arab and as jaunty as the I didn't get in right with these revoluionists, but I was in El Paso-they called it Paso del Norte then-when I met Gerald, thin and yellow as parchment, sauntering along in the Plaza. I hailed him, and found out all about the failure of his ambitious plans. He was to have been a governor or something if the rebellion had succeeded. He had been hit at the Arroyo fight, erawled 17 miles to the river and was now recuperating at Hotel Dieu, a skeleton of himself, but as full of devilnent as ever. He said very frankly hat he was in a terrible frame of mind about a young woman of Chihuahua-a high caste Mexican of Cordovan descent-whom he meant to marry, even though he had to carry her off. Singular, isn't it, how the father's predilections appeared in the boy?

"The trouble is," said Gerald, sitting on a stone bench in the shade, "the girl is in love with a bullfighting rapscallion from Madrid who has been down through the republic, strutting and cow killing till the women are all wild about him. The worst of it is he's coming up here, and I suppose the whole of Mexico will send its best peoole to cheer and lionize him. I don't Herald. cnow whether to kill him or turn toreador myself and challenge him. He'll well, colonel. I've got to lower his colors somehow.' Well, I met Gerald every day after that and he mended so rapidly that ferty's men and was thinking of joining the rangers again. The girl lived on the American side, and though I say she was a beauty. I never saw a man so cut up over a woman. At that time I think he'd have fought a whole regiment to win her, but I wasn't at all ready for the desperate thing he really did. I had a cottage over in the new section, or rather a shack, for there were only two rooms, and I was frying my bacon one night about 11 when Gerald came in at the open door with a very dirty and disreputablelooking Spaniard.

"Colonel," he laughed, "this is Ramon Jesus Felipe del Agar, the famous bullfighter. He's pretty drunk, but he wants a drink."

Then he put the hero on my army cot and gave him a bottle of mescal, which the victim gulped like a famished

"I've got to keep him here till the fighting is over," whispered Flad, "and if you're my friend, colonel, you'll help

I asked him what he meant to do with Del Agar, but the rascal said: "Show him a good time. That's all."

I made sure that no violence was intended, and as the Spaniard was lapsing into a state of unconscious quiescence I asked Gerald to mess and promised to take care of his guest. To show you what a cunning strategist he was, he never told me a word about his ultimate scheme, but I suspected that by preventing Del Agar from appearing in the bull ring in the morning he hoped to make good his suit with the senorita. He stayed all night with me, but at sunrise when I rose he was gone, and the sleeping stranger, surrounded by half-empty bottles, was deep in dreamland. At ten o'clock that morning I went across the river after locking up my shack, and as soon as I got into my tier I saw Cafferty and some of his men, waiting for the second onset. The first bull had been killed by one of the lesser swordsmen and the whole amphitheater was alive with gossip about the disappearance of Ramon del Agar. "What do you think, Hutchinson?" roared Cafferty, coming over to me, "the Spanish champion has vanished, and that fool Flad is to take his place. See that girl over there-that one with the black mantilla and the red flowersthat's the cause of it all. Flad's so mashed on her that he'd stand up for a smile of hers."

Then the trumpet sounded and the procession of matadores, picadores and banderilleros marched in. We saw Gerald at once. He was arrayed in the tight-fitting bolero, breeches. hose and slippers of the Spaniards. but he wore neither queue nor headpiece, and his yellow curls looked singularly out of place among his swarthy comrades. When the fighters advanced to salute the governor, Flad did a very queer thing. He stepped up to the barrier in front of the smiling senorita and, ignoring the evident disapproval of the crowd, trailed his sword as he bowed low before her. A moment later the bull, a particularly ferocious young monster, came bounding into the arina. Flad had retired, as is the custom, to give place for the baiting by the banderilleros and picadores, but the crowd was oddly impatient for the "Gringo" star to have his chance, and before the play was half completed and while the buil was at the very climax of his fighting rage the bugle sounded for the swords-

I think the governor yielded to the popular impatience in the hope of satisfying his own grudge against the American who had ignored him, but at any rate, the first note had hardly sounded when Flad, bareheaded and laughing like a boy, bounded through the gates, his scarlet mantle on his left arm and his Italian rapier flashing in his right. Again he ignored the dignitaries and smiled at the woman. Then he faced the astonished bull and flaunted the crimson ten yards from its blazing eyes.

"Bravo, Toro!" screamed the mob, which already hated the intruder. "Bravo, mio Gerald!" piped a girl's voice, and then there was the quick, stifled gasp of fascinated interest as the beast lowered his crest and charged the enemy. If the judges and spectators expected an equal or prolonged fight between the American rowdiest rurale that ever wore spurs. and the bull they were disappointed. Instead of missing or half-thrusting, as the best bull-fighters ofter do. Flad buried his weapon to the hilt true between the shoulders of the bull, as swift and certain as if it had been pricking a sawdust target. As the brute sank quivering to its krees, Flad food a second before it, as if ashamed. Then he plucked out his sword, flung it on the ground and walked out at the gate as sullen and as bowed as if he had been beaten in a fair fight. He saluted nobody, heeded not the cheers of the multitude, nor stopped till he was alone in his dressing room.

When Flad reached my house that night Del Agar was gone.

"I'm going to New York to-night, colonel," said Gerald, sitting dispirited on my trunk.

"Take the girl with you?" 'I hesigot but a few glimpses of her, I must Digestibility of Grains and Starchy Foods of All Kinds Greatly Increased When Prepared by a Dry Heat.

> An important discovery in economic botany, which, it is believed, will have a far-reaching application to human food, was first formally announced at one of the conferences of heads of departments which are held weekly in the Museum building of the New York Botanical garden. The discovery may be described as a dry process of cooking cereal grains and starchy products. The food is cooked in a saturated atmos-

The author of the discovery is Dr. Alexander P. Anderson, now curator of the herbarium at Columbia university. In a paper in which he gave an account of his discovery Dr. Anderson said:

"All the cereals and nearly all the important foods derived from plants contain large quantities of starch. The chief value of the cereals lies in the starch which they contain. "To prepare starches for human food it is essential that the granules should be broken up in order to be more easily acted upon by the different digestive enzymes. The salivary enzymes are especially active in converting starch into sugar, but raw starch, in which the granules are intact, is slowly acted upon.

"On the other hand, when the starch granules are previously broken up by heating in water, the enzymatic action is almost instantaneous, and the starch is converted into sugar, in which form it is soluble and easily assimilated.

"it is a well-known fact that starches do not swell to any extent when heated dry or in contact with a relatively small amount of water, as in the ordinary bread baking process.

"In the course of my experiments I have discovered a method by means of which starch granules of all kinds can be expanded and broken up without the use of water from the outside, which is customary in the conversion of starches into pastes in the ordinary cooking processes with water.

"Instead of adding water, I am against a whole herd of Andalusians able to effect the complete swelling of the starch granule by means of dry heat. This I do by subjecting the starch granule, grain or starchy mass to a rapid heat in a saturated atmosphere.

"At the end of the process I find the starch granules broken up into an innumerable number of particles or fragments. The resulting products after the expansion are drier than before.

"I find that I can in this way swell or expand any starchy product, and especially the cereal grains. When the grains are swelled the resulting products are from four to sixteen times greater in volume than the original kernel. The expanded kernels are only enlarged, otherwise exact copies of the original. "The only difference between starch paste or starchy food products prepared by the ordinary method of boiling or cooking with water and the dry method of expanding them is that the resulting products expanded when dry can be kept indefinitely in their dry condition, while the products prepared with water easily spoil and ferment."

She Suffered for Years and Felt Her Case Was Hopeless---Cured by Pe-ru-na.

Mrs. Judge McAllister writes from 1217 West 33rd St., Minneapolis, Minn., as follows: "I suffered for years with a pain in the small of my back and right side. It interfered often with my domestic and social duties and I never supposed that I would be cured, as the doctor's medicine did not seem to help me any. "Fortunately a member of our Order advised me to try Peruna and gave It such high praise that I decided to try it. Although I started in with little faith, I felt so much better in a week that I felt encouraged.

"I took it faithfully for seven weeks and am happy indeed to be able to say that I am entirely cured. Words fail to express my gratitude. Perfect health once more is the best thing I could wish for, and thanks to Peruna I enjoy that now."—Minnie E. McAl-

The great popularity of Peruna as a catarrh remedy has tempted many other internal remedy for catarrh that will take the place of Peruna. Allow many so-called catarrh remedies and catarrhal tonics are to be found in many drug-stores. These remedies can be procured by the druggist much cheaper than Peruna. Belong to that class of inflammatory and disfiguring skin eruptions that cause more genuine bodily discomfort and worry than all other known diseases. The impurities or sediments which collect in the system because of poor digestion, inactive Kidneys and other organs of elimination are taken up by the blood, saturating the system with acid poisons and fluids that ooze out through the glands and pores of the skin, producing an indescribable itching and burning, and "I can cheerfully endorse your S.S.S. the yellow, watery discharge forms into crusts and sores or little brown and white scabs that drop off, leaving the skin tender and raw. The effect of the poison may cause the skin to crack and bleed, or give it a scaly, fishy appearance; again the eruptions may consist of innumerable blackheads and pimples or hard, red bumps upon the face. Purification of the blood is the only remedy for these vicious skin diseases. Washes and powders can only hide for a time the glaring blemishes. S. S. S. eradicates all poisonous accumulations, antidotes the Uric and other acids, and restores the blood to its wonted purity, and stimulates and revitalizes the sluggish organs, and the impurities pass off through the natural channels and relieve the skin.
